

Joseph Kohn Scholarship Application:

Joseph Kohn (34), a self-described "flaming environmentalist", was an active member and tireless supporter of Environmental Forum of Marin and the Marin Chapter of the California Native Plant Society. Before he passed away in January, 2010, he guided Environmental Forum students on walking explorations of natural habitats, native plants, and waterways.

Always a compassionate advocate on the subject of correcting eco-system damage wrought by human inattention and behavior, Joe's dedication to all environmental concerns inspired dozens of Environmental Forum students. He attributed his public speaking skills to his advocacy training as a member of Master Class 34. An annual memorial scholarship was created to honor this beloved member with funds he bequeathed to the organization so that other "flaming environmentalists" could follow in his stead. The scholarship covers full Master Class tuition for a student who already has demonstrated leadership qualities in protecting the lands and ecology of Marin County. Recipients are selected on the basis of their demonstrated commitment to the environment and sustainability, their past experience serving as a role model for other environmental advocates, their collaborative skills, and past accomplishments.

Please fill out the following and email it to MasterClass@marinefm.org by July 31. (If you don't have a scanner, feel free to cut/paste your application directly on our email). You may apply for the scholarship for yourself or nominate someone else.

Recipients of the scholarship will be notified prior to the Preview Event.

Name (nominee)

Address

Contact phone number and email

In one paragraph, please describe your (or the person you are nominating) dedication to the environment.

If nominating someone else, what is your relationship to that person?